

National Conference on Changing Dimensions of Scholarly Communication and Role of Libraries to Attain Inclusive Knowledge Society

September 6-7, 2022

Organizer

Department of Library and Information Science University of Kashmir

Introduction

Ever since the debut of scholarly communication, the field has changed a lot. With the launch of two formal channels of scholarly communication, Journal des Sçavans and Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society in the year 1665, the field has flourished a lot. All across the globe the scholarly communication has changed the society towards betterment as it has helped to attain new knowledge bases or added to the existing knowledge domains. Scholarly Communication has always been a focus of libraries and the later has always helped the scholarly community to fulfill their scholarly goals and endeavors. The scholars might have enormous goals to attain new scholarly heights and this is where libraries can be transformational. New emerging channels and forms of scholarly communication put new challenges in terms of their adaptability. With the advances in Information Technology, libraries and information professionals can now have access to global scholarly information and pass that access on to the scholarly community in every last corner of the world. Libraries thus can infuse the new genre of scholarly platforms for a better research world and thus help in attaining an inclusive knowledge society for all. The conference welcomes papers that address the theme in terms of its various dimensions.

The papers may focus on:
